iv) Transport cost for agriculture produce and other allied products be subsidized (both for inter-state transport and overseas transport).

v) Disinvestment in public sector and reinvestment in irrigation sector.

vi) Reorganizing Commodities Boards and establishing new Commodities Boards.

(d) Agriculture being a State Subject, the State Government is responsible for implementation of policies and programmes for development of agriculture in the States. The Union Government recognizes its responsibility towards the agricultural sector. Steps are accordingly undertaken and plan provision made to enhance agricultural production and productivity through various Schemes and Programmes to raise the income of farmers and for augmentation of their living standards. The plan allocations cover crop production programmes, marketing reforms and creation of marketing & storage infrastructure like godowns and cold storages, soil and water conservation, on Farm Water Management to provide irrigation facilities in Eastern India, plant protection measures, cooperation, horticulture development and promotion of high yielding varieties of seeds. The Department of Agriculture and Cooperation also handles issues related to international trade of various agricultural commodities. In view of this, there is no need for a separate budget on agriculture on the lines of General and Rail Budgets and for its transfer to the Councurent List.
